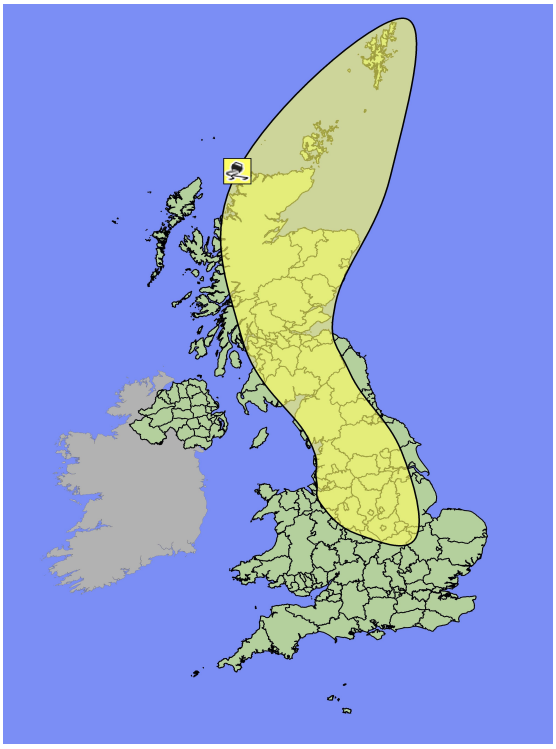
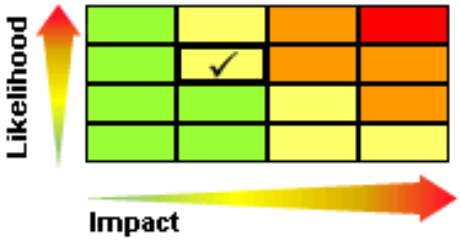
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
The weather front responsible for the rain, sleet and snow through Sunday (across areas from south and west Scotland southwards), will tend to fizzle out, but with wintry showers continuing across the north of the warning area. Many surfaces will be left wet and cold, or with slushy snow cover, which will freeze later in the night as the cloud tends to thin and break.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 00:05 on Mon, 11th Feb 2013 until 11:00 on Mon, 11th Feb 2013

Icy stretches are expected to form on untreated surfaces overnight and into Monday morning. Sleet and snow showers will become increasingly confined to northern Scotland by morning but a further 2 to 5 cm could fall on high ground of northeast Scotland and the Northern Isles.

The public should be aware of possible travel disruption.
